

Dr. Blackman is an Assistant Professor in the Health Equity Research and Education (HERE) Center, Autonomy Research Center for STEAHM and the Department of Health Sciences at California State University, Northridge. Further, she is a Community Health Advocate for i.D.R.E.A.M. for Racial Health Equity and a member of the Santa Clarita/San Fernando Valleys African American Infant and Maternal Mortality Prevention Community Action Team. Dr. Blackman graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Human Performance (Minor: Chemistry) from Howard University (with honors) and PhD in Human Nutrition, Foods, & Exercise from Virginia Tech. She completed a postdoctoral fellowship in Cancer Prevention and Control in the Department of Preventive Medicine at the Keck School of Medicine of University of Southern California. Upon completing her fellowship, Dr. Blackman was a Research Analyst at the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health, Division of HIV & STDs, Research and Innovation Sector. She is a southern California native, daughter, sister, wife, aunt, mother of two girls and one son.